MONARCH WATCH

BUTTERFLY TAGGING

Join Monarch Watch's 33rd monarch butterfly tagging season with Franklin County Conservation.

Monarch butterflies are one of the most recognized butterflies and one of the few insects known to migrate, however, their populations are quickly declining. With tagging, we are able to track the monarchs populations and ability to complete their annual migration.

Join us for a fun and education program about these spectacular butterflies. We will be catching monarch butterflies, tagging, and releasing.
